COURSE SUMMARY

The Stamp Act 1949 has long been part of Malaysia's legal framework, but recent enforcement by LHDN has elevated stamping compliance to a critical priority for HR operations. Failure to stamp employment contracts, mutual separation agreements, confidentiality agreements, and other HR-related instruments within the prescribed timelines can lead to financial penalties, audit risks, and even render documents unenforceable in legal disputes.

With the LHDN Stamps Portal now in full implementation and clear deadlines for submission, stamping is no longer a discretionary administrative task—it is a core compliance obligation that must be embedded into HR processes.

This comprehensive training will equip HR professionals with:

- A solid understanding of the Stamp Act 1949 and its application to employment-related agreements.
- Awareness of employer liabilities, exemptions, penalties, and current LHDN guidelines.
- Step-by-step guidance on using the LHDN Stamps Portal, including hands-on practice.

By the end of the course, participants will have the legal knowledge, practical skills, and procedural frameworks necessary to ensure full compliance, minimise risk, and maintain audit readiness for all stamping obligations under the law.

WHY THIS TRAINING IS NECESSARY FOR COMPANIES

- Legal Enforceability

Unstamped agreements may not be admissible in court, leaving employers unprotected.

- Avoiding Penalties

Late stamping attracts substantial penalties and interest under the Stamp Act.

- Regulatory Compliance

LHDN is actively monitoring HR-related documents for stamping compliance.

- Reputation Protection

Demonstrating compliance enhances trust with employees, regulators, and stakeholders.
